

CLAIMS DRY SLEUTHS WHO FIRE BUILDINGS ARE GUILTY OF ARSON

Fire Marshall Feels That Agents Should not Destroy Property

Madison—(AP)—J. E. Kennedy, state fire marshal, intends to find out if prohibition enforcement can set fire to buildings, and be immune from arson laws of the state.

He has received reports that in a number of cases prohibition officers, both state and federal, have fired structures which they claim were used to house stills or store supplies of liquor. Mr. Kennedy does not believe they have authority to commit such acts, and will seek a court ruling on the question.

Officers have informed him that in many instances the structures burned by them have simply been "little shacks" set out in the woods for the sole purpose of serving the needs of bootleggers. He understands, however, that in one or two cases barns or other farm buildings were destroyed by fire deliberately.

While he recognizes that it is a principle of law that an injured party must come into court with clean hands and that a person who violates the prohibition law might be handicapped in seeking redress under the arson law, he feels strongly that prohibition agents are not justified in destroying property without due process of law.

The procedure he plans to follow is to hold John Doe hearings against agents who have infringed the arson law. If they are federal agents, they will probably appeal to a federal court; if state agents, their cases will go before circuit courts, and, in either case, a judicial decision will be made in the controversy.

More important than the question of property values involved in the matter of educating public sentiment to disapprove of deliberate firing of buildings, he says.

He points out that if officers of the state, or federal authorities, are permitted to set fires at their own discretion, it will be exceedingly difficult for his department to decrease the number of arson cases.

BECK STARTS WAR ON CHAIN STORES

Candidate for Governor Says They are Operated from Wall Street

New Lisbon—(AP)—Chain stores were a target for attack by Congressman Joseph D. Beck who spoke here this afternoon. Mr. Beck is a La Follette Progressive candidate for governor.

He advised merchants to organize active opposition, charging that the "chain store, like the power trust, is operated from Wall Street, and unless merchants act in their own defense, the big financial concerns will have the club to beat the local merchants to death."

He urged that merchants cooperate to have their cause represented before hearings to be conducted by the federal trade commission, which, on authority of a senate resolution, is to investigate methods and practices of chain stores.

"In some cities, 56 per cent of the grocery business is done through chain stores with headquarters in New York, operating on money squeezed out of the pockets of the people," he said.

"Just why merchants oppose the Progressive movement, and support one that is determined to put them out of business eventually has been and is now a mystery to me."

"I appeal to you local merchants to determine for yourselves whether your interests lie with a movement that seeks your destruction, or with those that oppose the concentration of wealth in the hands of the powerful few."

Mr. Beck said the federal commission's investigation will show that "those responsible for the chain store movement have been watching the development of the power trust in the United States, and are attempting to profit by whatever that institution is doing."

BROADWAY'S NEMESIS MAY BE FIRST WOMAN AS CABINET OFFICER

Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt Believes That the Prohibition Law Is a Good One

Washington — If Herbert Hoover should be elected president next November, it is entirely possible that the cabinet which would take office with him the following March would, for the first time in the country's history, include a woman.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, a lady who takes her job so seriously that she just had upwards of a score of Broadway bars closed, "to show New York that it is not immune to the prohibition law," is named by rumor as a possible choice for attorney general, providing the Republicans win the election.

To begin with, putting a woman in the cabinet wouldn't be a bad move politically. It would tend to make women voters feel that they had a direct interest in the party that did it.

In the second place, Mrs. Willebrandt was one of the first Hoover boosters.

IS REAL LAWYER

In the third place—and most important of all—she has genuine ability as a lawyer and a prosecutor. For nearly seven years she has served as assistant attorney general, and she has filled her post with marked distinction. Prohibition law cases—and income tax litigation have been her province, and she has set a record.

Indeed, she has been so active in liquor law prosecutions that certain wags have said her "compliment of trying to get her 'kicked upstairs'." They have repeatedly urged that she be given a federal judgeship.

Mrs. Willebrandt is far from satisfied with the progress that has been made to date in prohibition enforcement. An ardent dry, she wants to see the law enforced right to the hilt.

And believes it can be done.

"Give me the authority and let me have my pick of 300 men and I'll make this country as dry as it is humanly possible to get it," she once said. "There's only one way it can be done—get the sources of supply. I know them, and I know how they could be cut off. I have no patience with this policy of going after the hip-pocket, and speakeasy cases. That's like trying to dry up the Atlantic ocean with a blotter."

HAS MADE GOOD

When Mrs. Willebrandt was appointed an assistant attorney general by the late President Harding, in 1921, the appointment was taken as a sop to the women voters. It was assumed that Mrs. Willebrandt would be given a nice office with a big mahogany desk, and nothing at all important to do. She would be a figurehead to make the women think they were getting recognition.

When it was announced that she would handle prohibition enforcement cases the belief was strengthened. There was at that time a feeling that the administration was not going to make any real effort to enforce the prohibition law; what more natural then, that the job of looking after it should be given to a young, inexperienced woman? Mrs. Willebrandt was then just 32.

Mrs. Willebrandt in a short time proved that, as far as she was concerned, the prohibition law was going to be enforced as strictly as any other law, if not more so. It was she who went to Cincinnati, got the evidence against the notorious George Remus and sent him to Atlanta. Then she went to Savannah and broke up the famous "Big Four" liquor ring, reputed to be the most powerful in America.

FORCEFUL PERSONALITY

Mrs. Willebrandt's forceful personality has made a marked impression on Washington. She has never been afraid to speak her mind. When the Senate was investigating Harry Daugherty's regime as attorney general, and later when Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller were on trial in the Alien Property scandal, she spiritedly defended Daugherty, although it was hardly popular or politic to do that just then. She has always insisted that Daugherty gave her a perfectly free hand.

Mrs. Willebrandt was born in a frontier town in the Texas panhandle, then a part of Kansas. Her father was a country newspaper editor with a roving disposition; her childhood was spent in various parts of Texas, Missouri and Oklahoma, and by the time she was 17 the family had moved to Buckley, Mich. She took to teaching school there and there fell in love with the high school principal. He was threatened with tuberculosis; so, after their marriage, they went to a town in the Arizona desert, where she nursed him back to health.

Their marriage did not prove happy, however, and sometime afterward they separated. Mrs. Willebrandt moved to Los Angeles and plunged into work. She taught school in the daytime and in the evening studied law at a night school; and after five wearing years of this she hung out her shingle as an attorney.

Unlike most budding lawyers, she did not accept any and every case that came her way. She hung onto her school teaching job and thus was able to pick and choose most prospective clients. She refused to handle any criminal cases and would not touch any divorce cases.

During the war she became chairman of the Los Angeles legal advisory board that worked in connection with the draft. She also became a member of the Republican state committee, legislative chairman of the largest women's club in the city.

This work made her prominent, and her prominence grew each year. So, in 1921, her name was proposed to President Harding by Republican leaders in California for an assistant attorney generalship, and she was given the appointment.

Although she is noted for the long hours she puts in at her office, Mrs. Willebrandt a few years ago felt the need of an outside interest so she adopt-

Steady Stream Of Gold
Flows From U. S. Coeffers

New York—(AP)—Although the United States still holds more than two-fifths the amount of gold in the world available for monetary purposes, a steady stream has been flowing from American coffers during the past year. In May, 1927, America held $4,610,000, 600 of the world's $10,000,000,000 supply. Other nations, seeking to build up their reserves and stabilize their currency, have tapped Uncle Sam's hoard during the past year to the extent of about $600,000,000.

Economists are not worried over this drain, however, as it is estimated that the country could lose nearly half its present supply without deflation of encroaching on the necessary reserves of the nation. In 1914 America's total gold supply was less than $2,000,000,000. It grew to present proportions largely through payments by foreign nations for wartime supplies.

Security traders, however, have watched the outflow of the metal closely as each dollar of gold represents about $10 of banking credit. Changes in the supply consequently show quickly in loan rates. Last August the call money rate, the cost to the brokers for borrowing money used for their day to day transactions, fell to 3.65 percent. On June 4 last it touched seven percent, sagged after a day or so and then moved again to seven percent on June 25. On June 27 it advanced to 7 1/2 percent, and on June 29 moved to eight percent, the highest since 1921. Again on July 2 it advanced, thus time to ten percent, the highest since 1920.

Memories Of Herbert Hoover's Boyhood ---
On The Sidewalks Of West Branch, Iowa

DOCTOR LEECH

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of two articles on Herbert Hoover's boyhood at West Branch, Ia.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
West Branch, Ia.—The sidewalks of New York—and the sidewalks of West Branch, Ia. . . .

The teeming, struggling center of the nation's life, a city of 5,000,000 people playing life's game at its hardest . . . and a remote, placid crossroads settlement of 700 souls. . . .

Yet each has given, out of surroundings marked by poverty, a man to go before the whole nation as a candidate for the presidency!

From what strange contrasting conditions have Herbert Hoover and Al Smith come!

New York has its Tammany Hall, governing hundreds of thousands of voters. West Branch is run by a community club, which has 400 or 500 members at its monthly meetings.

To a stranger in New York the people appear sour, self-centered, inhospitable. But you'll go far to find more friendly and kindly people than those of West Branch. In New York no one knows his neighbor unless he lives in the suburbs. In West Branch everyone knows his neighbor and all his intimate, personal affairs.

The compensation is, as one smart West Brancher puts it, that even though the other fellow knows all your business, you know all his, too.

New York, of course, reaps the benefits and pays the penalties of its size. So does West Branch.

In the town where Al Smith was born there are bad, bold bandits, plenty of murders and crowded courts and jails. West Branch built a one-cell, two-bed jail a year ago and hasn't had a customer since, except a few tramps. City Marshal J. W. Haylett arrested a couple of drunks last week and remembered no other pinches in four or five years.

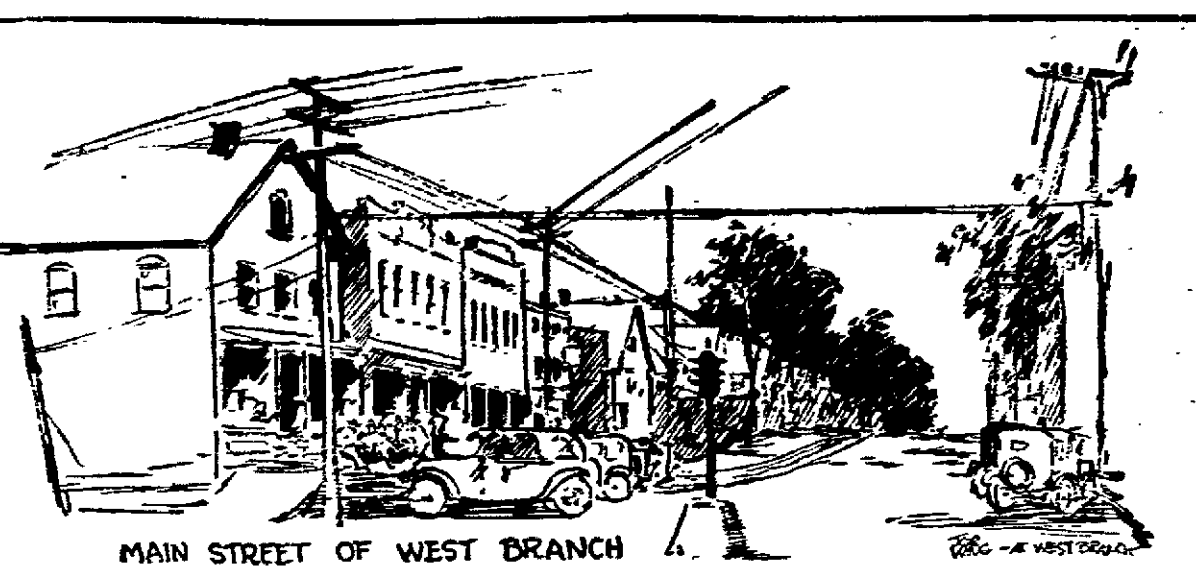

"One or two fellows come to this town drunk sometimes," he says, "but they wait till I'm in bed. I'll get 'em yet!"

New York's thousands of police keep vigil along their beats day and night. Marshal Haylett is the West Branch force, his uniform on duty is a shirt and overalls, with badge and sash.

New York was named after an important district in England, in honor of a duke. West Branch was so named because it happened to be settled along the west branch of Waplesnec Creek.

In New York, millions bring their cares at night to crowded tenements. Chautauquins and lectures are held here. A movie house opened in the old church where Herbert Hoover's mother once preached, but the town fathers soon decided it must be controlled. Now all the movies here are shown in the school house and the school principal selects the films with great care.

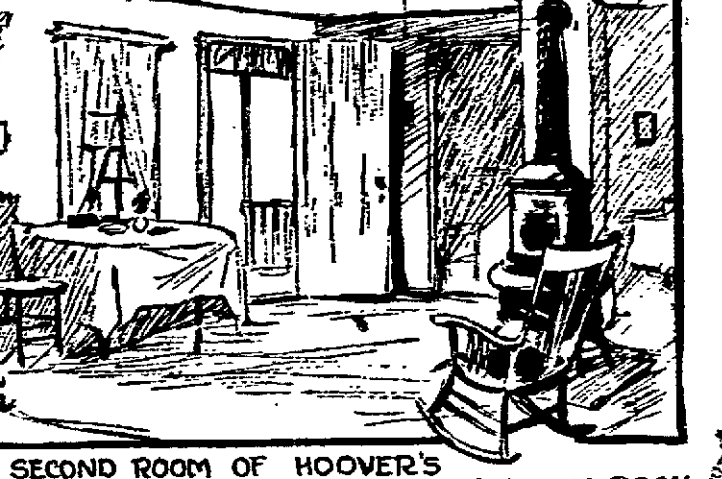

Whatever may be said of the plays and revues in New York, a short walk along Broadway would convince any visitor that the school principal had little to do with their selection.

Along Broadway, too, bloom speakeasies and fast night clubs. West Branch never has public dances. The nearest is a platform floor at Rochester, 10 miles away and that open only on summer Saturday nights.

Mr. Hollingsworth, the Quaker bank president, who told the writer the state of public morals here, said dancing was considered immoral. He said the last West Branch girl who had gone wrong was a grandmother now, and the incident had been almost forgotten.

New York has its Grover Whalen, chief of the official welcoming committee that welcomes you to New York after you have flown an ocean or something. West Branch has its Doc Leech, who treated Bert Hoover for measles, chicken-pox and the itch, and who has served as a sort of Grover Whalen to the throng of reporters invading West Branch.

Your correspondent found Doc Leech on the porch of his home, poring over a biography of Herbert Hoover.

"I'm just studying up," said Doc with a chuckle. "It was a long time ago when Hoover was here and I've forgotten a lot. This account of Bert's boyhood refreshes my memories."

Doc Leech's boy, Oliver, was an inseparable pal of Hoover's. Doc says he always noted a sort of nervous embarrassment in the Hoover boy and observed it again when Bert was here in 1921.

New York has its gang wars, too. Doc Leech says there was quite a turbulent gang of boys in Hoover's boyhood days here, too. He says Hoover won nearly all the fights that the gang forced on him. In those days, Doc explained, apologetically, there weren't many playthings for boys and fighting was just recreation.

New York has its Annie Rooney, glorified in the old songs of Al Smith's youth, but here in West Branch, Hoover had no girl sweetheart, according to Mollie Carrens. Mollie (Mrs. John K. Carrens) was Hoover's boyhood teacher and her memory of the barefoot boy is most productive.

Her only recollection of Hoover's fallantry toward the opposite sex she described as his "taking care of a little lame girl" who didn't get her share of the refreshments at a school party.

"When Bert Hoover was ten years old," Mollie says, "there wasn't any indication held ever he was greater. But he put his whole soul into everything he did. He kept still when he had nothing to say but could express himself on anything he was interested in."

"Bert didn't have enough to do in the third grade. Somebody had graded him wrong. So I put him into the fourth. He was good at arithmetic and could recite very well."

Mrs. Carrens had been drafted to the school to handle an unruly room, but she doesn't remember ever "reproving" Hoover.

One incident in Herbert Hoover's life Mollie Carrens and all of West Branch remembers fondly and well. That's the story of Dr. Billy Walker, the dentist who died here recently.

Dr. Billy always thought a lot of Hoover. In his dental parlors he used to have an unusual collection of curiosities—stuffed birds, butterflies, old coins, minerals and such. Young Hoover became intensely interested in all that. Often he would come to gaze at the objects and study them. Dr. Billy had read and studied a great deal and he told Herbert all about those curiosities.

Well, old Dr. Billy was always poor and never made a good go of dentistry.

Hoover, rich and great, was back here a few years ago. He asked his cousin George, who now has a nice job in Washington, whether or not any of his old friends were in need. George couldn't think of any.

Just then Hoover saw old Dr. Billy and there was no question from Dr. Billy's appearance that he was in need.

After that the boy who used to study rocks in Dr. Billy's office and later became a mining engineer planted some money in the bank here for Dr. Billy and continued to send him enough to live on until Dr. Billy died.

West Branch measures its values carefully and West Branch likes Hoover. As New Butler says, "Bert isn't a tightwad."

In New's place, by the way, is another testimonial of West Branch neighborliness. On the counter stands an open box of cigars inside of which is a penciled card which reads:

"Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Larson." The idea is that whenever one of the West Branch boys gets married,

BAND MEMBERS GET READY FOR ANNUAL JOURNEY TO CAMP

Musicians Will Stop and Give Usual Concerts at Orphans home

A varied program has been outlined for members of the 10th Field Artillery band who leave next Saturday for the annual two week encampment at camp McCoy, Sparta. Concerts will be played at LaCrosse and at the Orphans home at Sparta, according to E. F. Mumm, director. Each year the band has been requested to play at the Orphans home, and members of the band say they have a good time with the youngsters. Mike Steinhauer, who has attended camp for the past 30 years, will yield the honor again this season.

The band is the first to be up in the morning, playing as members of the regular army get up, and are the last to go to bed after they play the closing concert each night.

Following the morning concert, members of the band take their morning setting up exercises, followed by breakfast. The remainder of the morning consists of a two and one half hour drill, according to Mr. Mumm.

In the afternoon, many of the members who are interested in military drill, practice with members of the regular army and participate in rifle and pistol shoots. Joseph Wetzel received honorable mention in a pistol match last year.

Two ball teams have been organized among band members, one composed of married men and the other of single men. Last year the married men won the final game by a close score, after fifteen innings. Anson Bauer is the official umpire for all games.

Guard mounts are conducted every other day, according to Mr. Mumm, in which the National Guard and the band participate.

62 MILLION GALLONS OF WATER USED IN JUNE

There were 62,190,000 gallons of water pumped at Appleton situation plant and pumping station in June according to the regular report of A. J. Hall, superintendent. Last year during June 55,200,000 gallons of water were pumped. Wash water used in June 1928 amounted to 2,184,000 gallons and in June 1927, 2,575,000 gallons.

Last month marked the end of the first year the new settling basin at the plant has been in operation. Wash water has decreased from a monthly average of 7.7 per cent the year previous to opening the basin to 2.7 per cent for last year. More water has been pumped by the station during the year so it is estimated the settling basin has saved the city about a full month's pumpings, or about 50,000,000 gallons of water.

JUNE RIVER TRAFFIC IS FAR BELOW THAT OF SAME MONTH 1927

Figures Gathered by Engineer Show That Month of May was Far Ahead

Traffic on the Fox river between De Pere and Portage was lighter during June this year than June of 1927, but it showed a marked increase over May, according to a report of A. F. Everett, government engineer. The first part of last month indicated a heavier traffic than in June of 1927.

During the past month, the locks between Portage and DePere were opened 3,123 times and 434,267 tons of freight and 493 passengers were transported. Last year during June there were 3,332 lockages and 510,046 tons of freight and 510 passengers passing through, the report indicates. In May this year the locks were opened 2,734 times and 342,304 tons of freight and 750 passengers were transported.

During the earlier part of June this year, 275 lockages at the DePere locks allowed 37,407 tons of freight and 19 passengers to pass. Last year, 233 lockages were reported at DePere with 27,751 tons of freight and 58 passengers. The increase in passengers this year was brought about by the many commercial fishermen.

A total of 179 lockages were reported at Kimberly with 25,784 tons of freight and 21 passengers in the past month, while last year there were 195 lockages and 32,011 tons of freight and 30 passengers transported.

At Menasha, the locks were opened 70 times with 4,226 tons of freight and 31 passengers. No lockages were reported between Port Winnebago and Portage.

"Nothing Ever Happens" To This Quartet Of Veterans

"Nothing has ever happened to me," said the disabled war veteran with the shrapnel cut on his cheek whose conversation was sprinkled as naturally with words like Manchuria, Tokio, Siberia, tramp steamers, as ours is with weather, laundry, shoes as he rested on his one leg beside the "Ark" on E. College-ave Monday. "Never been a co-responder in a divorce suit. Never did anything that would be of interest to a newspaper."

To get information from this close mouthed soldier boy about the unique vehicle in which he and his three buddies travel from town to town where they sell "Good Citizen—Help the disabled veterans" cards to make expenses, was like trying to get an adventure story from a bookkeeper; certainly he saw no more strangeness in his life than would an accountant—or if he did it wasn't telling about it.

Four years ago in the Sawtelle hospital in southern California, a disabled vet decided he was tired of the sanatorium where the sole topic of conversation was the hashing and the re-hashing of war experiences. "It becomes tiresome," the lame soldier told the reporter yesterday, "especially since the other fellows experiences are always so much more remarkable than your own." So the vet bought an old truck, fitted it with a roof and two cots, painted it with the pictures of all the animals that accompanied old Noah on his houseboat, gathered three more buddies, and began to cruise the country. Since that time thirty different boys have traveled in the "Ark." By now the pictures of the animals are covered with license plates of every state in the union for it has cruised from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the border to the Gulf four times. Its trophies number an energetic monkey, the gift of a Legion lady whose husband sent her the animal from Costa Rica; a live racoon; a pair of long curly toes shoes, gift of Hal Roach to the boys when they played extra parts in Hollywood; the backbone of a whale from Seattle; the frame of sawfish from Florida; helmets, gas masks, and German bayonets.

The boys are all members of the American Legion. With their government compensation and their curb-side sales, they manage to buy gasoline and food. Besides supporting themselves they help the Legion poppy sell through which they have contributed substantial support to the organization. One of the buddies was a member of the 2nd Division, a second of the 5th field artillery, a third of the 5th Machine, and the fourth a motorcycle runner, unattached. Some have lost one or both legs.

One is still suffering from the effects of gas. Another's ribs are plated. One was a civil engineer and is a college graduate. Another never finished grammar school. One was a parachute jumper, another an automobile racer.

"Don't you have a long waiting list? Aren't a great many times four veterans anxious to live the "Ark" life?" the veteran was asked.

He grinned. "Lots don't care for the life. They're happiest traveling back and forth up and down, siding ways and kick-around from one end of the country to the other."

The kids, some bald, the tattooed laces of the hands, the racketeers, the old hand who have grown stout and rich and influential since the end of the war, the old buddies who have grown lean and apprehensive of policemen since the war—these crusers of the Ark know them all. And still "Nothing has ever happened to me," said the soldier. He grinned silently to himself and the grin was a baby blanket over a rich pirate chest.

He grinned. "Lots don't care for the life. They're happiest traveling back and forth up and down, siding ways and kick-around from one end of the country to the other."

The kids, some bald, the tattooed laces of the hands, the racketeers, the old hand who have grown stout and rich and influential since the end of the war, the old buddies who have grown lean and apprehensive of policemen since the war—these crusers of the Ark know them all. And still "Nothing has ever happened to me," said the soldier. He grinned silently to himself and the grin was a baby blanket over a rich pirate chest.

WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT INFORMATION BUREAU

A request from the New London merchants to information regarding the establishment of a merchant rating bureau has been received by the Appleton chamber of commerce. The local chamber has been instrumental in the organization of the 122 Veehaus at Wausau, Wis., and the Merchants and Manufacturers Association of Appleton and other cities.

One is still suffering from the effects of gas. Another's ribs are plated. One was a civil engineer and is a college graduate. Another never finished grammar school. One was a parachute jumper, another an automobile racer.

"Don't you have a long waiting list? Aren't a great many times four veterans anxious to live the "Ark" life?" the veteran was asked.

He grinned. "Lots don't care for the life. They're happiest traveling back and forth up and down, siding ways and kick-around from one end of the country to the other."

NEW LONDON DOCTORS TAKE CLINICAL COURSE

One hundred Wisconsin physicians, including 18 from New London, are enrolled in the New London clinical course given by Dr. William A. Rupe, chief specialist of the Wisconsin Hospital, St. Louis and attending physician of the University of Wisconsin Medical Division at the request of the New London Medical Society.

Dr. Rupe will lecture on every day of the course and give lectures to the physicians on the subjects of diagnosis and treatment of prevalent children's diseases—nutritional, contagious and congenital.

Hunting under certain restrictions is allowed in the national forests of California, although not in the national parks.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

THIS HAS HAPPENED
NATHANIEL DEAN is engaged to VIRGINIA BREWSTER, whose father dies suddenly after losing his fortune. The girl is left a penniless orphan, but FREDERICK DEAN and his daughter CLARISSA persuade her to make her temporary home with them. VIRGINIA becomes unhappy in her new home and resolves to tell NIEL her fears. But when she phones his studio late at night his model, CHIRI, answers. This causes doubt and a quarrel which is later explained away happily.

Meanwhile, DEAN is forced to pay blackmail to a MRS. FARLEY or face a scandal which he realized would spoil his chance of winning VIRGINIA. Hoping to get NIEL out of the way, DEAN has the president of a company he controls offer him a large salary. He accepted the offer and went to San Francisco at once. NIEL is overjoyed at the offer and begs VIRGINIA to marry and go west with him. But she refuses to let him sacrifice his art study.

VIRGINIA is involved in trouble with CLARISSA when the latter's fiancé, RUSSELL VAINGOULD, catches her unexpectedly in a half-dressed embrace.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XII
Without a word CLARISSA turned and disappeared from VIRGINIA's agonized sight. And by that silent gesture VIRGINIA realized her worst fear. CLARISSA had misunderstood! The expression of utter scorn and contempt that had distorted her features as she watched the scene before her had flashed her interpretation of it to VIRGINIA with lightning comprehension.

"Let me go," VIRGINIA cried fiercely at RUSSELL. "Are you mad? Let me go."

He laughed as she wrenched and tore to free her frail body. Finally she worked her hands to a position that enabled her to give him a strong shove and managed to break away.

"Oh, what a fool you've been," she joked. "CLARISSA saw you."

"So that's what throttled you? I was afraid you didn't like me."

"Like you? I think you're a beast!"

"Just because I kissed you? Say, that makes me dizzy. I thought I knew how to kiss a girl and make her like it."

He spoke in the voice of a complaining child.

VIRGINIA was white and trembling now. The dread of facing CLARISSA was replacing her wrath. How could she convince her friend that it was all nothing but a stupid, meaningless episode? In her heart VIRGINIA feared she could not.

"I'm going up to try to explain to CLARISSA," she told RUSSELL in a shaky voice, "and I certainly shall make it plain as to who is the guilty person."

"You'd better give her time to cool off. CLARET knows some pretty strong words," RUSSELL advised.

VIRGINIA did not answer.

"Well, wish you luck," he called after her as she left the room.

She went directly to CLARISSA's boudoir. At the door she paused a moment to catch her breath before rapping.

CLARISSA threw the door open, banging it back violently.

VIRGINIA walked into the room without an invitation to do so, quaking inwardly before CLARISSA's patent fury.

"I don't care to hear any lies, if you intend to defend yourself that way," the latter said in a harsh, raised voice.

VIRGINIA looked at her steadily, fearlessly. The words had served to strengthen her to free her of an unmerited sense of guilt.

"There is no occasion to lie," she replied quietly.

"Then if you haven't anything to say for yourself your presence here is an insult to me," CLARISSA declared.

"But I have something to say for myself—simply the truth. I could not help what you saw, CLARISSA. You must know that RUSSELL has had too many cocktails. He lost his head."

"Oh, did he?" CLARISSA sneered.

"Well, it wasn't because of cocktails, let me tell you. I know how much he can drink and I know how much he had. It wasn't enough to make him do a thing like that unless he was encouraged."

"CLARISSA! You know better than that. I don't blame you for being angry, but after all it was just a foolish thing that RUSSELL did."

"Very foolish indeed, to do it right under my eyes. I wonder how you thought you could get away with it, VIRGINIA."

"Do you really believe I wanted it to happen?"

"Well, why not? If you didn't you could have managed to avoid it. Simply by you haven't forgotten that I warned you I wouldn't permit any trespassing where RUSSELL was concerned. I thought you might find him more interesting than a poverty-stricken artist. Or were you simply adding another bow to your string because you feared Mrs. Farley?"

VIRGINIA's eyes wavered over the stormy creature before her in absolute bewilderment.

"I haven't the faintest idea what you are talking about," she said when she could speak.

"For heaven's sake, can't you stop pretending to be dumb?" CLARISSA cried angrily. "Don't you suppose that I know you aren't going to marry your precious NIEL? You wouldn't have turned him down to come here if you were. There's only one answer to that—you aren't such a simpleton as you let on. You know Dad's a catch. Well, that was all right with me. I didn't want Mrs. Farley to get him."

sheer left her lips and a dull flush spread over her cheeks. "It does not matter to me now whether you believe me or not," VIRGINIA went on, speaking slowly and with perfect control. She had recovered from the attack CLARISSA had launched upon her. She had brought herself to a state of cold calm for a few minutes at least, and it was now CLARISSA's turn to finish.

"I don't believe I should care to have you believe me to want to be friends again," the stern young voice carried on. "You have changed so horribly since you spent so much time abroad. I've heard you were, rushed by fortune hunters over there, CLARISSA; perhaps that is why you are so suspicious and worldly. You seem to think that everyone is ready to sacrifice decency for money. And you would have preferred me to ruin my life rather than have your father marry Mrs. Farley. But you've made a big mistake if you've thought that I feel as you do. You can go down and tell RUSSELL VAINGOULD that I don't consider him worthy to speak to the man I'm going to marry—that's how much I want to take him away from you. And as for wanting to marry your father—I'd hate myself if the idea had been mine."

The speech was almost too long for her composure. The last words came with more of natural feeling than the first had. It proved a relief to CLARISSA, who preferred a touch of temper to the quiet thrusts of truth.

But she was too spoiled to accept all of VIRGINIA's statements as truth. Her innermost conviction was that she had acted a fool but she was affronted at the portrayal of herself as a materialistic, worldly-minded, selfish, scheming person. She lifted her chin with a great show of spirit and turned her back, accompanying the gesture with a shrug of disbelief that caused VIRGINIA to turn and leave the room in full knowledge that the break was final.

She knew she must leave the house as well. It would be intolerable to spend another night under a roof that harbored anyone who had insulted her so grossly as CLARISSA had. She would pack a few of her things and leave immediately. The thought of seeing Mr. Dean bothered her. She would have to do it, though. He couldn't be held to answer for CLARISSA and she owed him an explanation as to why she was leaving his house.

In her room she rang for a maid and asked if Mr. Dean had left. A few minutes later she was on her way to the library, where her host was waiting to see her.

But as she approached the door a thought as staggering as anything CLARISSA had said crossed her mind and she halted abruptly as though a physical barrier had been thrown up before her.

DEATH OF BELGIAN IS BELIEVED AN ACCIDENT

Brussels—(P)—Judge de la Rumeur, who presided at an investigation into the disappearance of Captain Alfred Lowenstein, believes that accidental death seems the most logical explanation of the mystery.

He refused to give a death certificate, however, since the mystery developed in an English plane in French territorial waters and the Belgian authorities were therefore incompetent.

The family is anxious to avoid a British investigation owing to uncertainty as to what it might lead to, even a suicide hypothesis.

There has been no confirmation of an Exchange Telegraph Dispatch from Dunkirk which said a fisherman saw a parachute descend about the time the Lowenstein plane was crossing the channel.

Development Of Young Children Is Regular

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
If a parent thinks that a child develops in a haphazard fashion either mentally or physically he is mistaken. Nothing is more interesting to a trained observer than to watch the evidences of mental power developing in a young baby from day to day.

For such development in an average child occurs almost according to schedule. It is no longer instinct, the little animal impulses that evidenced themselves at birth, but real thought power, the manifestation of the senses, and reaction to surroundings and events.

For instance, at 12 weeks a baby can recognize faces. At 13 weeks he looks for something that has disappeared. At 16 weeks he reaches for an object. And at 24 weeks great interest is shown in events around him.

THEY LIKE MUSIC
At 4 weeks a baby begins to pay attention to sound, such as a radio or phonograph. At 8 weeks there is such interest in music that if he is crying he will stop for a time. He begins about this time to smile when he recognizes a voice or a sound that pleases him. At about 12 or 13 weeks he turns in the direction of the sound. A month later he will try to reproduce sounds himself.

His sense of perception develops rapidly from the third to the sixth month. After six months he begins to pay close attention to things that interest him.

From this time on his mental processes develop rapidly and psychologists claim that this time is the most important in his behavior training. Habit training, so closely related to character training, should now be begun.

HERE'S WHAT HE'LL DO
If you are interested in the development of his perception processes at this period and his reaction to events, these are a few of the things you may expect him to do.

He will seize objects and throw them down.

If he sees his carriage, and his mother with her hat on, he will know he is going out and will show unmistakable signs of joy.

He will show a delight in animals.

He will recognize his name.

At 7 or 8 months he will recognize names of his sisters or brothers.

At 10 months he can make several sounds with meanings.

At 11 months, incredible though it may seem statistics show that the average baby can understand the meaning of 34 words—31 nouns, 28 verbs, and a few others.

At 12 months he reacts to discipline, understanding the meaning of a very mild reproof or punishment.

SCOTS FOR KILT CORRECTNESS

While pleased over the popularity of the kilt amongst girls, loyal Scots in Scotland are broadcasting a protest that some are wearing the pleats in front, whereas they should be in the back only. Another point emphasized is that the kilt should come down to the middle of the knee caps, so that when a wearer kneels the edge of the kilt should just touch the ground.

At the Windsor electric plant of the Ohio Power Company ashes are carried over the hill back of the plant by an aerial cableway and dumped in the valley beyond.

Former Queen Sophie Is Leading Spartan Life

Florence, Italy.—(AP)—While former Kaiser Wilhelm spends the remnant of his troubled life in comfort at Doorn, Holland, his sister, former Queen Sophie of Greece, lives in seclusion and almost Spartanlike simplicity in a small house here.

Swept from the Greek throne with her royal consort, King Constantine, in the disaster of 1924, Queen Sophie, who is the mother of Princess Helen of Rumania, lives near the tomb of her former liege, who lies buried in a little Byzantine church.

Widowed, throneless, and almost moneyless, Sophie seems to have no other interest in life than to brood over the misfortunes that have overtaken almost every one of her family. These disasters culminated with the tragic death from a monkey bite of her favorite son, King Alexander of Greece. Others included the exile and murder of the Russian Imperial family, to whom she was related; the dethronement and expulsion of her brother, Kaiser Wilhelm; the double exile and subsequent death of Palermo of her husband, King Constantine; the forced abdication of her son, King George of Greece; and finally, the abandonment by Crown Prince Carol of Rumania of her favorite daughter, Princess Helen.

Only a few of her former friends and relatives come to see the heart-broken Sophie in her seclusion. Once one of the richest queens in Europe, Sophie is now dependent for her sustenance upon the generosity of her relatives, who indeed themselves are none too opulent. She occasionally receives help from her youngest brother-in-law, Prince Christopher, who married the late Mrs. William B.

FORMER QUEEN SOPHIE

Leeds, widow of the American "tin-plate king".

The former queen's only companion here is her youngest daughter, 15-year-old Princess Catherine. The only diversion the widowed mother has, besides visiting daily the tomb of her husband, is to write letters of counsel to her eldest daughter, Princess Helen of Rumania, on how to raise her son, Mihail, to be a good king.

HISTORIC NAMES FOR TELEPHONE EXCHANGES

London.—(AP)—Romantic names from the scroll of history are to be brought into daily use by inclusion in the list of London's new telephone exchanges. All the selections have been made with a view of keeping fresh in memory many of the places and characters with which the London of old abounds. "Temple Bar" is one of the new exchanges. At one time Temple Bar was far better known than Piccadilly Circus or Trafalgar Square. It is in the Strand, and originally marked the division between the "city," the original part of old London, and the country, or shire. In ancient times the heads of traitors were left to moulder on it.

Gladstone is also a new exchange, named for the great statesman. Livingstone is another, and Macaulay has been selected for a Wandsworth road exchange, in commemoration of the historian's boyhood connection with the adjoining district. Numerous other exchanges will be named for celebrated local characters.

STAY OUT, HEAT
Vienna.—A recent Austrian invention is a type of window glass that permits the entrance of sunlight, but stops nearly nine-tenths of the heat, thus keeping the interior of a house cool. Ordinary glass permits the heat to enter and does not allow the heat, absorbed by objects under the glass to go out again. With the new glass, however, the action is just opposite.

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Marye, dear:
I suppose I was foolish to feel so upset about your taking a job as a model, particularly since Alan does not mind and since it amuses you so. My feeling I suppose, is this: that if a married woman gives her job of homemaking into another, and goes out to work herself, it ought to be at something important—more important at least than what she is giving up.

And just showing clothes all day seems so trivial to me. And I can't help feeling that there are lots of girls in the city, who really need to support themselves, who should have these jobs, rather than two girls such as you and Miss Smith, who are amply provided and are merely amusing yourselves by working.

One hears so much about unemployment and the difficult times girls have earning an honest living in cities that it is easy to understand why they resent this competition from women who do not have to consider wages, and who can, as you say, walk out on a job any time it becomes a bore.

It causes you to appreciate your home more, and makes it possible for you to welcome a quiet evening, however, I ought to make no objections. And I don't.

Tell Alan I am sending a box of preserves, all nicely labeled, for his particular benefit, and that he may do as he likes about sharing them. And I'm going to have more for you later on as the other berries come in season. I have so much time now that I really love to fuss with this sort of thing.

I think you may expect Florence back most any time now, since she has about convinced her mother that life here is impossible for her. She wants to have a little apartment of her own, she says, where she can devote herself to the development of her career without the cramping influences of her family.

Have you written to her that you are modeling? I have said nothing to her about it. She is such a gossip and people here will think it very strange that you are working. It will reflect on Alan. So I think it best not to start any conjectures. They never would understand your attitude.

Are you planning to come home later in the summer? Everyone is anxious to see you and you will disappoint them dreadfully if you don't—say nothing of how I shall miss you. Perhaps you would like to be here for the fair week—that will be the first of September. But any time that will suit you will be splendid for me.

Devotedly, MOM.

NEXT: Mary writes further experiences as a model.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
BREAKFAST—Grape fruit, scrambled eggs with rice, bran muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Vegetable hash, baked, lettuce sandwiches, peanut cookies, egg lemonade.

DINNER—Broiled lamb chops, potatoes au gratin, peas and mint salad, and raspberry shortcake, milk, coffee.

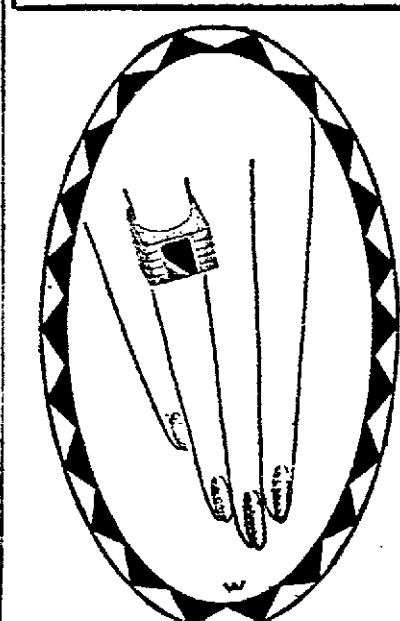

Plain, old-fashioned biscuit dough is used for the raspberry shortcake. plenty of plain cream should be served with a raspberry shortcake. For the berries themselves are not as juicy as strawberries.

PEAS AND MINT SALAD
One and one-half cups cooked fresh peas, 2 cups lemon jelly, 1 bunch fresh mint leaves, 1/2 cup diced celery, few grains salt.

The peas should be well seasoned when cooked. Make the jelly after your favorite lemon jelly rule, using less sugar than usual. Chop mint leaves and add to the hot jelly. When cool, strain. Let stand until beginning to set and add peas and celery. Turn into small molds dipped in cold water. Place on ice to chill and become firm. Unmold and serve in nests of lettuce with French dressing to which a few chopped mint leaves have been added.

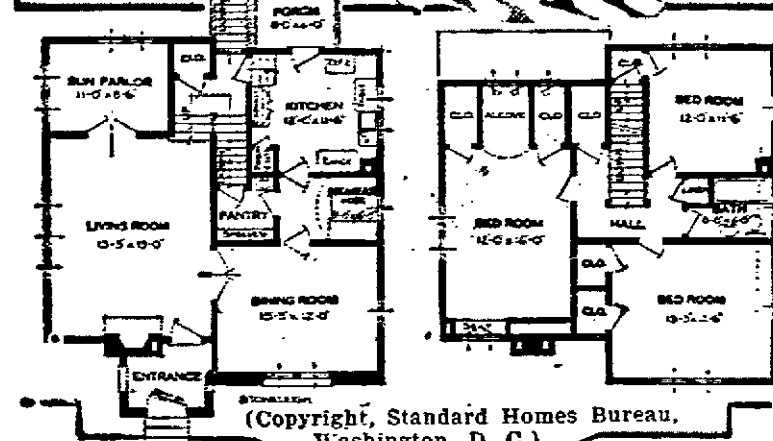

A few drops of green vegetable coloring can be added to the jelly. If fresh mint is not plentiful, two or three drops of oil of mint can be added to jelly after it has cooled.

SUCCESS AFTER HARD WORK AND SPIRITED FIGHT

Naomi Johnson

ONE track mind is necessary to success," declared Naomi Johnson, Ziegfeld dancer, who now is a principal in "The Three Musketeers."

"Promotion only comes to those who interpret every 'no' to mean a 'yes' where their careers are concerned," she said.

"So many girls allow their entire careers to be spoiled because they become discouraged at first. A girl sets out with high hopes to seek an important post, only to be confronted with the fact that a thousand other girls are after the same job."

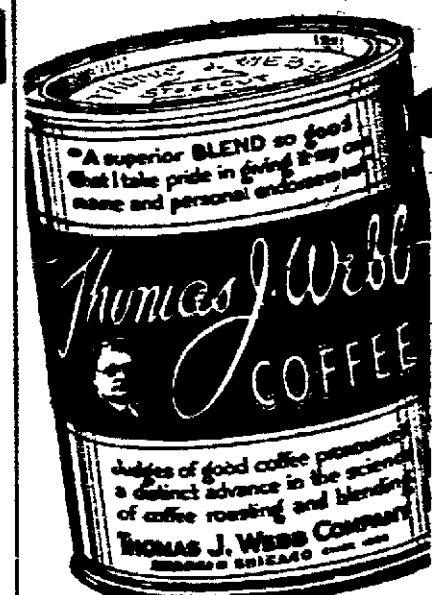

"In 90 cases out of 100, the aspirant is discouraged and persuaded to take some lesser position. If she takes 'no' seriously, she soon will drift into obligation. The thing that separates those 10 potential successes from the 90 others is their persistent driving will to hurdle all obstacles to success."

"A superiority complex is not necessary. Grit, determination, a fighting spirit and work are. These form the four-leaf clover of success. Keep them with you and you will recognize 'opportunity' when it comes your way. You will also be able to combat successfully the rough spots."

INCURABLE DISEASE HITS GRAFTED ROSE

Washington.—(AP)—Burning of infected plants, Department of Agriculture investigators have concluded, is the only way to eradicate graft cancer after it attacks rose bushes which have been grafted.

The disease sometimes appears on or near the point where the stock and scion are joined, affecting either or both, and if it entirely circles the stem the bark cracks, the wood tissue becomes rotted and water soaked, and the plant quickly dies. Some plants are more susceptible than others to this disease, which may be detected by the formation of the canker or callus or the wilting of the leaves. It is most likely to appear in forcing frames, and no means of control are known for plants once infected.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY. THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THIS is no race. The Tiny has no race. They are zebra and zebra. "Why, neither zebra is ahead. We'll have to call it even, and we all can say we won. I think we've covered lots of ground and now we'd better turn around. It's getting pretty late, 'cause I can hardly see the sun."

"Oh, we'll get back before it's dark," said Clowry. "This is quite a lark. I'd rather keep on going straight for just a little while. These little zebras always roam. They surely know the way back home. And even though we have to walk, it's only 'bout a mile."

So, on they rode, quite satisfied to get real fun out of their ride. And then they reached a real dense woods. The zebras raced right in. "Oh, look! Look! See that zebra!" And then they reached the hunter and he said, "Where have you been?"

We really hadn't any doubt that we had left you far behind. How did you get up here?" The hunter laughed, and then replied, "Why, my brown bear gave me a ride. I'll take you now to see him, and there's nothing you need fear."

They very shortly found the bear. He was a very big affair. "He's hitched up to the hunter's cage," cried Clowry in delight. "Gee, if he has been pulling you, I wish you'd let him pull us too. I guess we still have time to take a ride before it's night."

"Hop on the cage," the hunter said. "I'll tell my bear to move ahead." Then came a crazy scramble as the Tinymites hopped aboard. Away the bear went, "cross the land." "Oh, gee," cried Clowry. "This is grand." And then they heard the hunter's voice. "Come back real soon," he roared.

(The Tinymites are upset in the next story.)

MEMORIAL BUILDING COMPLETED BY FALL

Expect to Have Madison Structure Ready When Students Return

Madison—(AP)—Returning to their studies this fall, University of Wisconsin medical students will find the new Service Memorial building ready for occupancy, dedicated to the veterans of the World War and to the prosecution of a campaign against disease.

Besides allowing the expansion of courses in medicine and allowing greater research, library and laboratory facilities, the new building will centralize many departments allied to medicine and free other structures of space.

The building consists of five stories, built in the form of a letter H and connected with the Wisconsin General Hospital.

In the basement there will be a special plant for making radium emanation. Radium constantly gives off a gas which is radioactive. This gas is collected in small tubes which may be implanted in the tissues and which gives off rays having the same effect as those given off by the radium element although the emanation soon loses its potency and must be fresh to be of value.

The equipment for the department of radiology and physical therapy alone will cost about $70,000. With the opening of the new building, the space now occupied by the departments of physiology, bacteriology, chemistry, pharmacology, bacteriology, pathology and the shop now in Science hall will pass to geology and double the space for that department.

The transfer of the medical school library from the State Historical Library building to the new structure will empty more than half a floor in the library. Moving of the state laboratory of hygiene from South hall to the new building will free one floor which the school of Journalism will occupy.

The change of the departments of radiology and physical therapy, of the hospital library and of some of the student laboratories in the Wisconsin General hospital will add materially to the office space although it will not increase the bed space in the hospital building.

LIGHT WEIGHT HENS HATCHING PHEASANTS

Conservation commission Finds Buff Orpingtons are Best for That Purpose

Madison—(AP)—Buff Orpington hens are helping the conservation commission supply Wisconsin with ring-necked pheasants.

Four hundred pheasants have been hatched on the commission's game farm on peninsula state park in Door co. There are already 200 pheasant chicks from this year's hatching, and 400 more will start hatching the middle of July. Buff Orpington hens have been found the most satisfactory, and next year the commission plans to use bantam hens for the setting.

The commission this year bought 10,000 pheasant eggs but most of these were distributed among the sportsmen's organizations. Wallace B. Grange, superintendent of game for the commission, is in charge of the pheasant propagation. He is living in the park so that he can devote his entire attention to the birds.

Mr. Grange has been experimenting with both eggs and birds from the first hatching. Pheasant eggs are smaller than hen's eggs and it has been found that light-weight hens the best adapted for setting.

Experiment has also been carried on in the size of settings. Some hens were set on as few as ten eggs, while one hen hatched out 27 chicks and has not lost one of them. Mr. Grange is also experimenting with incubators and brooders.

About feeding them, said Mr. Grange, "the question is not what they will eat as much as what is best for them. Pheasant chicks will eat practically anything, but we are trying to arrange a diet for them that will tend to make them strong mature birds. We have been feeding them crumbled hard-boiled eggs, finely chopped lettuce, grit and prepared custard. The main business in rearing pheasants is in keeping a close watch on them."

LIBRARY HAS 4 NEW BOOKS FOR CHILDREN

The children's department of the Appleton Free public library has received four new books which will be ready for circulation this week. The book the librarian complimented most was "The Red Cape" by Rachael Varhol. It is a story of a girl who lives under the shadow of revolutionists.

The other three books are "Strange Corners of the World," by J. E. Wetherall; "How Other People Travel," by Edna Heady; and "The Story of Books," by Marjorie Maxwell.

STAGE And SCREEN

"ACROSS TO SINGAPORE" Tempests on the ocean and tempests of human emotions: hurricanes of nature and hurricanes of hate—these are the contrasting elements in "Across to Singapore." Metro-Goldwyn-Conkey contribute specially interesting hits of character work as the two old New England sailing men. Anna May Wong plays a spectacular Oriental siren and Ben Womheim and Duke Martin are well cast as sailors in the ocean scenes.

"HAPPINESS AHEAD" In a picture decidedly different from anything in which she has appeared in the past, Colleen Moore, winsome First National star, is at the Elite Theatre for the last time today in her latest starring picture "Happiness Ahead."

Although this production provides her with every opportunity to display her excellent flair for comedy, Miss Moore will also be seen in moments of deep drama, in which she is said to have given an unusually capable actress.

"Happiness Ahead" is the story of a little country girl who marries a hard-boiled, believing him to be an entirely honest and business man. The manner in which she discovers the truth and the subsequent action of the principal characters, gives "Happiness Ahead" a plot which is unique in the extreme. Edmund Lowe plays the chief supporting role in "Happiness Ahead" which was written by Edmund Goulding. Other members of the supporting cast are Lilian Tashman, Edythe Chapman, Charles Selton, Robert Elliott and Virginia Sales. John McCormick produced "Happiness Ahead" which William A. Selter directed from a scenario prepared by Benjamin Glazer.

"GREEN GRASS WIDOWS" "Green Grass Widows," which brings Walter Hagen to the Elite Theatre tomorrow and Friday presents the great golfer in the role of himself and John Hagen and Gertrude Olinstead as young lovers whose game of love gets started at the 18th hole.

Johnny and Gertrude are in love, despite Johnny's poverty and Gertrude's many mad mother, but Johnny shoots a wicked game of golf and he stands a chance of winning the big purse at the tournament—until he finds Walter Hagen is among the entrants! But "The Hag" is a famous sportsman and turns caddy to cupid.

FRANK WALSH WILL BATTLE FOR STATE CROWN AT BLUE MOUND

Butte des Morts Pro Announces Intention To Play In State Open

Has Finished Either Second or Third in Event During Last Three Years

Frank Walsh has entered the state open tournament which will begin at Blue Mound country club, Milwaukee, Monday, according to a telegram from the Butte des Morts pro sent to Billy Sixty of the Milwaukee Journal staff, Monday. Sixty had painted a story in the Sunday issue of his paper stating the open meet would hardly be interesting if the local swaffer didn't come down for the fun and Frank apparently has taken Bill at his word.

The entry of Walsh into the open meet probably means he will be the big center of attraction during the two days the state amateurs and professionals battle over the hills and dunes of the new Milwaukee course. This year marks the fourth season that Walsh has started in quest of the state golf laurels and in the words of Sixty, Frank's been over due to win.

In 1922, the first year Frank entered the tournament he finished third to the winner, Jack Blakeslee of Kenosha. In 1922 he was second to A. B. C. "Eustace" Beck the Sheboygan amateur and last year he battled Francis Gallet of Milwaukee for the crown and lost.

Walsh has been playing great tournament golf during the winter and this spring. He earned a bit of money in several professional matches during the winter months and a jump through the west, southwest and south and just a few weeks ago cut quite a caper in the national pro meet at Olympia fields.

TUTTLE PRESS TRIMS POWER COMPANY, 4-1

Score All Runs in First Four Innings While Electricians Are Helpless

The Tuttle Press softball team of the American league which isn't very high in league standings, bumped off the Wisconsin Michigan Power company team Tuesday evening at the first-ward-school grounds. The score was 4 to 1 in favor of the printers.

The pressmen went after the game in regular order as soon as the gong sounded, scoring two runs on as many hits. In the second inning they went out and counted another two runs on a lone hit and a fielders choice.

In the third inning the Power company team got back a single run which turned out to be their only score. The Pressman also scored twice in the third inning and again in the fourth to end the evening's counting.

Batteries were Purdy and Fumal for the Tuttle Press company and Bogan and Llewellyn for the Power company.

INDIANS BUMP BREWS FROM FIRST DIVISION

Chicago (AP)—Milwaukee was missing from the first division of the American association Wednesday after getting only three hits off Ferdie Schupp, the Indianapolis pitcher. Tuesday while the league leading Indians maintained their winning streak 7 to 1.

The Brewers used three twirlers trying to stop Indianapolis but it was a futile effort. St. Paul defeated Columbus 10 to 4 while Toledo lost to Minneapolis 19 to 6. Toledo's defeat dropped the Mudhens from a second place tie with Kansas City into fourth place behind St. Paul.

Kansas City won from Louisville 9 to 6 although outfit 13 to 12.

One of Langford's Faults
Players around the American League say Langford, Cleveland outfielder, can't catch a ball at his left. They say he has a great arm, though and respect it.

Evans Says Yanks Will Letup In Pennant Drive

BY BILLY EVANS

Only one team in American league history ever has won the pennant with a percentage of .700 or better, and that was the Yankees of 1927. Not only did they cop the flag by 10 full games but established a new record of 110 victories and a winning average of .714.

Various other clubs have bettered those figures but only in the National league. The Pirates in 1907, for instance, turned in a .741 mark; the 1906 Cubs had a percentage of .763 and the same team came in with a .704 average the following season while the Pirates chalked up a .724 figure in 1909. These rank as the outstanding performances during the past 25 years.

Now comes the great Yankee machine of 1928. Away to sensational start. The Huggins horde has a chance to cross the finish line with a higher percentage than that accrued by the sterling Cub entourage of 22 years ago. The Cubs set a high water mark that campaign with 115 victories.

Whether or not the Yanks can cling to the stellar pace they set for the first ten weeks of play is a matter of conjecture, of course. Over the initial two and a half months stretch Babe Ruth and his gang still were hitting an .800 clip. That's some gait in any classification.

Out of their first 48 games the Yanks copped all but eight. Only enough three of those reverses to shutout affairs. Walberg of the Athletics, Uhl of the Indians and Carey of Washington were the trio to longer.

VALLEY DIRECTORS OPPOSED TO SPLIT IN PLAYING SEASON

Decide to Help Neenah-Menasha Get New Players and Reorganize Team

There will be no split in the playing season for valley league baseball teams it was decided Tuesday evening at a meeting of loop moguls at the Conway hotel. The move for the split season ended in a three to three vote and was dropped when found league rules require a two thirds vote to make a change in the constitution.

Managers Brautigan of Appleton and Larsen of Neenah-Menasha were strongly in favor of the change and had the support of Marty Lamers of Kimberly-Little Chute who figured didn't make much difference to his club. However, Green Bay, Kaukauna and Fond du Lac were strongly opposed to the move on grounds that it would cause fans to lose interest.

The magnates also decided that effort should be made to strengthen the Neenah-Menasha club following a break up which occurred last week. Manager Larsen, it appears, has been the victim of severe temperamental, high priced so-called stars who are always looking for the almighty dollar and as a result has had tough sledding. Last week the prima donna deserted the ship and a team of fellows who play the game for the sport of it were picked up to play Green Bay.

Efforts now will be made to band together a number of youngsters from valley cities who will appreciate a chance of play in the valley loop and see if they can't do as good as the men they are replacing. There are probably 15 or 20 youngsters in the valley who will jump at the chance to play with the Neenah-Menasha club. The president of the league is playing godfather to the Neenah-Menasha team until a new squad is picked up.

The league umpires also came in for a bit of cursing and discussing and one of them now will find he has time to spend elsewhere. Not, however, that the managers protested his decisions on the ball field but rather because of an inclination to get on the job late in the afternoon.

John Coppes, one of the Kaukauna magnates entertained the meeting with a discourse on the propriety of a fine levied against the Kaw club last month but it will take more than John's words to alter the magnate's decision. The fine was the result of a disturbance which occurred over at Kaukauna several weeks ago after one of the umpires had seen a play in a different light than several other persons.

Aside from the task of replacing part of the Neenah-Menasha squad all league managers reported that things are progressing quite favorably with their teams, both financially, and with the exception of a few minor hiccups, the Neenah-Menasha, in the league standings. Half the playing season was completed with Sunday's game.

Appleton and Fond du Lac managers decided to give the Appleton fans a treat Sunday, July 22, and play a double header here, the first game to begin at 1:30. One of the contests is a game that was rained out early in the season.

The next meeting of the club officers and directors will be held at Kaukauna, next month. The date of the confab will be announced by the league secretary later.

LITTLE DENIES SCHALK WILL COME TO U. OF W.

Madison (AP)—Reports that Ray Schalk, former White Sox manager, would assume the baseball coaching duties of the University of Wisconsin were denied Tuesday by George Little, Wisconsin director of Athletics, in announcing that Coach Lowman would continue as the baseball mentor.

Since Schalk's recent resignation as Sox Manager, it was mentioned that he likely would go to Wisconsin where two years ago he assisted in the early season task of getting the college baseball team in shape.

MORGAN AND MARTIN WILL BATTLE--MAYBE

New York (AP)—If the rain holds off, Ted Morgan and Cannonball Eddie Martin will get together for their much-delayed junior lightweight championship battle at Ebbets Field Wednesday night.

Humbert J. Fuzazy, who is promoting the 15-round bout, hasn't had a whole lot of luck with the weather so far in the outdoor season. The Morgan-Martin affair alone has suffered three postponements, twice because of rain and once because Fuzazy figured July 4 was no time to hold a fight.

The Seattle 120-pound champion is favored at odds of 6 to 5 to retain his crown.

BARBERS IN VICTORY OVER TELEPHONE CREW

The Hotel Appleton softball team administered a wallop to the Wisconsin Telephone company team Tuesday evening at the Third ward school grounds and copped 17 and 0. Carl Kuntz did the pitching for the Barbers while Peter King was on the receiving end. The Barber shop team is playing independent ball and wish to meet some of the teams in the city that think they're good.

SPECIALS BEAT TIGERS IN PLAYGROUND LEAGUE

Bernhardt's Specials won the second game in the newly organized playground league when they defeated the Smith ward Tigers Tuesday evening by a score of 2 to 1. Thursday evening the Specials will class with the Roach Sport Shop team.

STORM OF HOMERS ENABLES CARDS TO BEAT GIANTS, 5-1

Cincinnati Moves into Second Place with 12 to 4 Triumph Over Brooklyn Dodgers

The West, with its many pitfalls for the unwary, has no booster in John McGraw, the "master-minding" pilot of the New York Giants.

After taking three straight on the chin at Pittsburgh, the Giants moved into the even more dangerous territory of St. Louis Tuesday and encountered a storm of home runs that gave the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals an easy 5 to 1 victory in the first game of the series.

The defeat dropped the Giants into third place. Cincinnati moving up into the runner-up position by its 12 to 4 defeat of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Reds pounded the Dodger hurdlers for 15 hits in their seventh successive triumph at Cincinnati. Pete Donohue, back a tight rein on the Dodger sluggers until the late innings when the Reds had piled up a long lead. George Kelly, the long first baseman, was the hitting star of the day.

Hartnett's single with the bases loaded in the ninth gave the Chicago Cubs a 7 to 6, decision over the Boston Braves. Rogers Hornsby's sixteenth homer of the season had given the Braves a tie in the first half of the last game. Kent Greenfield, the Cub, far out in front in the fifth inning when he walked five men. This generosity with a triple, double and single accounted for six runs.

The Wander boys drove in the tying and winning runs in the Pittsburgh Pirates 6 to 5 victory over the Phillies. The Phils took a one run lead in their half of the ninth but singles by "Little and big poison" enabled the Corsairs to register their fourth straight win. The Washington Senators moved up to a tie for fourth place in the American league by beating the Cleveland Indians in both ends of a double header, 9 to 5 and 9 to 0.

Lou Blue and Frank O'Rourke led the St. Louis Browns to a 4 to 2 triumph over the Boston Red Sox in the opening game of the series.

FRED HANEY, EX-CUB ASSOCIATION STAR

Indianapolis (AP)—The playing of Third Baseman Fred Haney of the Indianapolis team has been one of the sensations in the American association this season.

The former Chicago Cub has been batting hard and adding to his value by timely late scalping.

Haney came to the Indianapolis club last year in a deal which sent Elmer Toner, Tribe third baseman, to the Cubs.

DAVE SHADE WANTS CHANCE AT WALKER

Chicago (AP)—Dave Shade, California middleweight contender for Mick Walker's championship is willing to post $25,000 to back his statement that he is ready for a chance at the titleholder.

Shade Wednesday said he was ready and willing to meet either Walker or Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, and had $25,000 waiting to guarantee his willingness to meet either of the middleweights, preferably Walker.

Olympic Contestants Sail For Holland On President Roosevelt

United States Team Expected to Win Championships in at Least Five Events

New York (AP)—Intent on international athletic conquest, the American Olympic team, 263 strong, sailed for Amsterdam Wednesday aboard the steamship President Roosevelt.

Track and field stars, fencers, swimmers, cyclists, carmen, gymnasts and entrants in other branches of Olympic sport will have a ten day voyage aboard the President Roosevelt.

Recruited from every section of the country, this arduous seeking not the golden fleece but the laurel wreaths that await Olympic victors, should return to the United States in September bearing more than its share of athletic honors. No other country in the world can assemble a group of record-holding athletes to match the American expedition.

Comparative performances indicate that the United States should win championships in at least five of the eleven branches of Olympic competition—track and field, swimming, rowing, boxing and wrestling. In all of these the red, white and blue will be defending team championships gained in the 1921 games at Paris.

In the other sports—fencing, gymnastics, cycling, modern pentathlon, equestrian competition, shooting and lacrosse—America is sending strong teams that will give other nations a fight if it nothing more.

Chief interest devolves upon the track and field squad. In the sprints, Wykoff, McAllister, Scholtz, Paddock and company must watch out for the stars of Germany and Great Britain. In the middle and long distance runs, Finland's iron men are most to be feared although in the 800 and 1500 meters Lloyd Hahn and other American competitors will need to watch Douglas Love of England, Dr. Otto Pelzer of Germany and Edwin Wide of Sweden. England, Sweden and South Africa will be strong in the hurdles and Finland, Germany and Sweden in the field events.

Swimming Uncle Sam has the Golden Bears of California to depend upon to repeat the victories of Navy and Yale in the 1920 and 1924 games, the swimmers, boxers and wrestlers will be heavy favorites to retain their titles although the way to victory possibly will be no smooth one.

The "more deadly" of the species comprise a much larger part of the total Olympic ensemble than they ever have before. Thirty nine women are making the trip abroad, 19 of them forming the team for the women's track and field events, the first time such competition has found a place on the Olympic program. On the swimming team are 14 of the fairer sex and the rest of the world appears unable to offer anything that can compete successfully against these maids who hold a huge majority of world's records for their events.

The American team will have a week of preliminary training in Europe before the chief Olympic program opens with the track and field championships starting Sunday, July 22.

Four hundred or more persons were assigned quarters aboard the President Roosevelt, in addition to the 268 athletes there are in excess of one hundred officials, coaches and trainers, headed by Major Douglas MacArthur of Baltimore, chairman of the American Olympic committee. A score or more of newspapermen complete the total.

HOLD THIS RECORD JOINTLY
Vance of Brooklyn, O'Brien of the Red Sox, Johnson of the Senators, Wilts of the Giants and Scott of the White Sox hold the record for successive strikeouts with seven in a row.

A LEGION JUNIOR

Here's 15-year-old Margaret Gisolo of Blanford, Ind., who was declared eligible by Don Sowers, national director of the American Legion nation-wide junior baseball tournament, to continue playing with the Blanford team. Miss Gisolo is a second baseman and a hard hitter and her eligibility was questioned by a team who thought boys only were eligible. In a recent game, Margaret handled seven chances without an error, stole three bases and delivered the hit that scored the winning run in the twelfth.

GAME WARDENS CAN'T SEARCH FISHERMEN'S POCKETS OR REEL

Madison (AP)—Game wardens have no right to search the pockets of anglers, or the trout baskets of fishermen unless they have a search warrant, the attorney general has informed Frederick C. Aebischer, district attorney of Calumet-co.

Wardens may, however, search automobiles with out a warrant, provided the officer has reason to believe the car is unlawfully transporting fish or game.

The constitution provides that all persons shall be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable search, the legal department points out. The game laws do not specifically provide officials with authority to search persons without warrant.

In liquor cases the courts have held search of automobiles without warrant is valid if there is reason to suspect their drivers of violating the law, and the attorney general holds the same interpretation will apply to the game and fish laws.

SCHLAFERS WALLOP KAUKAUNA BOOSTERS

Turn 13 Hits, Five Walks and Six Errors into 18 and 2 Victory

Schlafers Hardware company nine defeated the Kaukauna Boosters 18 and 2 Sunday afternoon at Walpole junior high grounds. Timely hitting and fielding tell the story of the Appleton team's victory.

The Hardware men turned 13 hits, five walks and six errors into eighteen runs while the best the Kaas could do was two runs on five hits and four walks. It was the third game in a row in which the Hardware men got 13 hits.

F. King's homer with a man on, R. Marx' triple and M. Helms' double with the bases loaded were the feature blows of the afternoon. R. Marx, W. Jones and M. King each tallied four times.

The fielding gem of the game came in the fourth inning with one out and met, on first and second, Kiffe and to Jones who tagged a runner between second and third, shot the ball to second, getting a man there, the second baseman tossing to first to get the batter. However, the twin killings ended the inning so the triple play went for nothing.

SENATOR ROBINSON'S PLEA FOR TOLERANCE INSPIRED BY FATHER

Joe Recalls That His Father was Agile Man at 70 and Knew How to Fight

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—If the Democrats had a "farm candidate" in mind when they chose Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas as Al Smith's running mate, they picked a true man of the soil. Senator Robinson was born Aug. 26, 1872, on a farm in Lonoke county, Arkansas. His father was an early homesteader and at various times was a physician and Baptist preacher. The son recalls with a laugh that the elder Robinson was agile enough when past 70 to engage in a fist fight. Robinson knows how to use his fists, too, and is a commanding personality. Joe Robinson, Arkansas will never call him by any other name—was one of ten children. When 12 years old he took up a man's work on the farm. His early education was in the country schools. He studied at night by candle light, after the last of the weary round of chores had been performed.

Joe Robinson's father was well educated and helped to instill in Joe the traits which are marked in the senator's character today. The elder Robinson was an adherent to journalistic and political policies of Charles A. Dana, of the New York Sun, and waited eagerly for every copy of the Sun by post.

One day, reading the newspaper, Joe's father ran across a story of the heroism and sacrifice of two nuns from a Baltimore convent who volunteered for duty in the stricken city of Memphis during the yellow fever plague of 1878.

He read the story to Joe, and gave the lad a fitting little sermon on tolerance. That incident may have been the inspiration of one of the finest speeches the senator ever made—the plea for tolerance delivered in the United States Senate.

During the course of Robinson's dramatic sermon on intolerance, Senator Heflin arose and started to interrupt the speech.

A fleeting flame came to Robinson's eyes. For an instant it looked as though he were about to throw those fists of his. Instead he held up a hand that had "Beware" written all over it, and went on with his speech.

But once at the Chevy Chase Country Club here, somebody didn't "sit down" when Senator Robinson began to bubble up. The result was:

Sensor Robinson nursed a bruised set of knuckles for several weeks.

A member of a threesome that tried to "pass through" the senator's party wore a black eye, and Senator Robinson was expelled from the club.

Senator Charles Curtis and Senator Joe Robinson—rivals for the vice presidency, but the warmest of friends. They seldom fought their battles on the Senate floor. A short conference in the rear of the Senate chamber or one of the cloakrooms usually resulted in their coming to an agreement on the course to follow.

When the $225,000,000 flood control bill came before the Senate, Robinson devoted hours to preparing a speech in its favor. A dozen other Southern senators also were ready to burst forth with oratory. It looked as though the bill would be lost to view under the deluge of eloquence.

Robinson conferred with Curtis of Kansas. He suggested that instead of talking himself out, the Senate vote.

"See Wes Jones," Curtis replied. Robinson found Jones, of Washington, who was in charge of the bill, ready to act. Robinson went about among the Democrats, quietly and persuasively.

In less than two hours the bill was passed. He threw his own speech into the wastebasket.

Robinson was close to Woodrow Wilson, and always his loyal supporter. But even Wilson could not swing

PAY FEES FOR REPORTING BIRTHS, DEATHS, MARRIAGES

Madison—(P)—Fees for reporting births, deaths and marriages during the year ending June 1, 1928, have been certified to all county treasurers by the state board of health.

They are credited to physicians and nurses for reporting births, deaths and marriages, and are paid from the county treasury. The fee is 25 cents.

"This may appear to be a small compensation for filing such valuable records," commented L. W. Huchcroft, director of the bureau of vital statistics, "but it is demonstrated that the remuneration is ample in the light of the actual time it takes to fill out and forward the certificates."

A number of prosecutions for failure to file vital records were instituted during the year and a conviction obtained and fine imposed in every case. The minimum fine is $20 and costs and the maximum $200. In only one case during the year was the maximum fine imposed.

The monthly reports received at the bureau of vital statistics prove conclusively, Mr. Huchcroft said, "that we are now obtaining more complete and accurate reports of birth, death and marriage than ever before."

Even the covers on magazines may be put to a good use if anyone is willing to do the work. It has been found at the public library. The board receives many magazines weekly and Joe away from a friend, and that friend was Jim Reed.

Wilson made it plain that he wanted Reed beaten in 1928 and Bradenridge Long elected in his place. But Robinson went into Missouri and took the stump for Reed.

Sensor Robinson was interviewed one day on religion about the time of his difference with Senator Heflin. Senator Jim Reed was standing near.

"You're a Methodist aren't you?" the reporter asked.

"Yes," Reed broke in before Robinson had a chance to reply. "I'm a Methodist in his wife's name."

That ended the interview.

four that the covers come in handy on many occasions. Here, they are used to illustrate books that the library has been to and in days of old. But and Girl are and now lots of the latest books to be found in the library shelves.

After the covers are torn out, the magazines are not only useful but are removed and a new set of covers is made.

833 AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIPS could be played off in DUNLOP CITY

THERE are 120 acres in the Brae Burn course, the scene of this year's amateur championship.

Dunlop's productive properties, if combined into one area, would form a "Dunlop City" of 100,000 acres—833 times as large as Brae Burn.

As a buyer of tires, you are interested in Dunlop's immense area—in Dunlop's $195,000,000 of resources, its 40 years of experience, and the 45,000 Dunlop craftsmen—for just one reason. You want to know: "Does all this make it possible for Dunlop to produce tires that are better than other tires?" It does.

Take just one example—cotton. Cotton fabric is the backbone of a tire's body. All tires—and balloons especially—must spring in and out of shape faster even than your heart pulsates.

Strong cotton is essential. But unless the cotton has extraordinary stretch, as well as strength, the tire is only an ordinary tire.

So Dunlop—with these great resources—pays a high premium for the pick of Egyptian cotton. Dunlop operates its own spinning mills. The Dunlop test fleet burns up over a million road miles a year—running much of the time with the tires at obviously low pressure, to make sure that the cotton has stretch, as well as strength, to an unparalleled degree.

These are some of the facts which make Dunlop tires superior to other tires. That the public can recognize the difference between Dunlops and other tires is proved by the fact that over 26 million Dunlops are in use today.

The tires which have received this overwhelming vote of confidence are the tires for you.

INE CANDIDATES ENTERED IN RACE FOR SHERIFF JOB

Eight are Republicans, One a Democrat; Two Have Dropped Out

Already nine candidates have started circulating their nomination papers for the office of sheriff of Outagamie county and it is rumored that there may be more men in the race.

Only one of the candidates has signified his intention of running on the democratic ticket and all the others, it is said, will be in the race for the republican nomination at the primary on Sept. 4.

Eight candidates are from Appleton and one from Kaukauna. Two men who intended to run for the office have withdrawn because, they said, they didn't have time to devote to the campaign. They were Dr. C. L. Kolb and Frank Menier, both of Appleton.

Other candidates are A. W. Jones, 14 S. Pierce-ave, who was born and raised in Appleton and is a wife-leaver by trade, still being a member of the Appleton Wise Weavers union, is reported to operate a sort drink parlor here but sold out to Theodore Ahnstrom of Little Chute. Mr. Jones served in the infantry during the World War, enlisting in 1918 and also spent eight months in the quartermaster corps at Washington, D. C. He has never before sought a public office.

F. W. Glase, 1112 W. Prospect-ave, came to Appleton nine years ago from Scandinavia. Mr. Glase is in the furnace business.

E. G. Grebe, Kaukauna, the only candidate who does not live in Appleton, is manager of the Brenner-Grebe fuel company and served the city here as alderman and is a member of the school board.

Peter G. Schwartz, Appleton, has held two terms as sheriff, serving in 1921 and 1922 and again in 1925 and 1926. He was born in the town of Bonn and later moved to the town of Kaukauna where he lived for 35 years at Jackson hill road.

J. F. Wankey, 120 S. Outagamie-ave, was born and raised in Appleton and was defeated in the race for sheriff by Sheriff Otto Zuehlke two years ago. Wankey is a carpenter by trade and has never held a public office.

L. J. LaRosa is the only candidate in the democratic ticket. Other candidates are Barney Hoffman, 509 E. Elm-ave, and William Vandenberg, 1015 E. Fourth-st.

Under the state law, Sheriff Zuehlke cannot run for office this year. A sheriff may not hold office two terms in succession.

Can't Judge Best Roof Signs; All To Get Rides

When it comes to judging roof signs, that is a difficult task according to John Neller, chairman of a committee selected by Mayor A. C. Rule, a month ago to fly over Appleton and see what building owners should receive prizes for having the best guides for aviators.

Of the original committee appointed by the mayor, but two were on hand when the Prize of Appleton left the ground on the evening of July 2. Those present were Mr. Neller and Stanley Stahl, a veteran of the air, while the missing ones were Charles Boyd, Chris Muller and Dr. W. J. Frawley. The three alternates who took the air with Mr. Neller and Mr. Stahl were William Kreis, George Mory and Miss Evelyn Van Roy, a school teacher.

The party was in the air the greater part of the hour, looking over the signs and trying to determine which was the best and then came to earth to think it over. As a result, they call it a draw and officers of the North American Airways company who offered prizes for the two best, have decided that the owners of all buildings having signs will be given sight seeing trips up and down the Fox river valley in recognition for their work in helping aviation.

APPLETON SWIMMERS TAKING ADVANTAGE OF MUNICIPAL POOL

About 600 Local People Use It Daily; Biggest Crowd in Morning and Evening

About 600 Appleton swimmers frequent the municipal swimming pool daily regardless of weather conditions, according to Mark Catlin, Jr., attendant. The pool is used from 9 o'clock until 11:30 in the morning and in the evening period from 7 until 9 o'clock. The average attendance during these two periods is 150.

Boys use the pool on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday and girls on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Just as many girls frequent the pool as boys on hot days, but they shy at it during rainy and cool weather, according to Catlin.

The water in the tank is changed on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and on Sunday the pool is cleaned with a force pump and the water drained out over the weekend. The pool is refilled on Monday mornings.

DISMISS CHARGE OF HAVING SLOT MACHINES

On motion of District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf, a charge of possession of slot machines against George Vander Velden, proprietor of a road house on Highway 41, near the Rainbow Gardens, was dismissed in municipal court Judge Fred V. Heinemann Wednesday morning.

Mr. Lonsdorf pointed out that when the road house was raided on June 8, by Herman Abitz, constable of the town of Grand Chute, three slot machines were under lock and key and so couldn't have been in use.

The raid was made, the district attorney said, on receipt of a letter from a man giving his address as route 1, Kaukauna, who complained that his 18-year-old son was spending his wages in the slot machine at Vander Velden's place and asked the district attorney to raid it. After the raid, the district attorney tried to locate the man who sent the letter so that he could be a witness in the case but was unable to do so.

PRIM GETS READY FOR ENFORCEMENT OF PARKING LAWS

Police Chief Advises All Motorists to Get Copy of New Laws and Read Them Carefully

Plans are being made by George T. Prim, chief of police, for the enforcement of the new city traffic ordinances. He expects to issue orders to his officers sometime within the next week to pick up offenders. Arrests will not be made immediately, the chief said, but in a few weeks he believes all motorists should become accustomed to the new rules.

"I would advise every motorist and pedestrian to obtain a copy of the new regulations either from the clerk at the police station," the chief said, "Read the instructions carefully and follow the new laws. We do not wish to be harsh with anyone but these laws have been made with the idea of promoting safe travel and to safeguard pedestrians and we are determined to enforce them and offenders will be taken to court."

The chief pointed out that the new ordinances contain many changes over the old laws and advises everyone to study the new laws carefully and prepare to obey them.

People living in the vicinity of Appleton, as well as local residents, should read copies of the laws because they often come to Appleton to shop or visit, the chief said, and must not expect to disregard the regulations because they are not residents. The chief said there were plenty of copies of the new ordinances for everyone and he said that it would be possible for one neighbor to loan a copy to the neighbor next door and thus save them all a trip to the city hall or the police station.

that the water became slightly poisoned. To counteract this the trout's thyroid glands were obliged to work overtime to produce enough iodine compound in their organisms to enable them to live.

Col Coupal called for a bottle of iodine solution. He dropped three drops of it into the vats containing the small fish. Within five minutes the little trout, which previously had not had enough energy to fetch their food, were darting hither and thither full of energy.

He dropped five drops into the vat with the bigger fish and gave orders for this treatment to be repeated daily. Within five days the trout had practically disappeared. Col Coupal explained this by saying that the addition of iodine to the water relieved the thyroid glands from the necessity of producing decreased in size and the goitres disappeared.

The hatchery attendants still regard the whole performance as nothing short of a miracle.

Apparently never growing weary of his favorite sport, President Coolidge again devoted many hours to fishing Wednesday in the company of John Larock, his Chippewa Indian guide. Leaving all office routine in the hands of Everett Sanders, his secretary, Mr. Coolidge gave instructions to be left undisturbed on the Brule.

Mrs. Coolidge took a short drive in the neighborhood of Cedar Island lodge Wednesday but avoided any villages. She returned before lunch to attend to the small flower garden provided at the executive residence where the ponies at present in full bloom, have been her special care and interest.

BRIDGE REPAIRS TO COST CITY $30,000

Inspector Gives Report on Condition of S. Oneida-st Structure

Permanent repairs to abutments of the S. Oneida-st bridge can be made for about $30,000, M. W. Torkelson, bridge engineer told members of the board of public works at a meeting Tuesday afternoon. The structure then will be serviceable for from 10 to 15 years, he said.

One of the abutments on the bridge became undermined by water about two weeks ago and was closed to traffic until temporary repairs could be made. Mr. Torkelson pointed out that the board of public works at a meeting had been hired to inspect all bridges in the city and his first report was on the S. Oneida-st structure.

The board also decided to take a count of traffic on the bridge for several days. Forms were made out Tuesday afternoon and the count was expected to start Wednesday or Thursday.

CHARGES WIFE CALLED NAMES; GETS DIVORCE

Charging his wife called him such names as "Kaiser," "Hun" and "Squid" and that she didn't cook his meals and he often had to go to his mother's home for something to eat, won an absolute divorce for William Hardt, 48, New London, Wednesday in municipal court before Judge Fred V. Heinemann from his wife Marjorie Hardt, 44, Chicago. Mrs. Hardt did not contest the action. The couple were married at Chicago on Dec. 7, 1907, and separated March 22, 1928.

Belleck had been hired to inspect all bridges in the city and his first report was on the S. Oneida-st structure.

The board also decided to take a count of traffic on the bridge for several days. Forms were made out Tuesday afternoon and the count was expected to start Wednesday or Thursday.

The weatherman's predictions for Tuesday night failed to materialize and no rain was reported through the central and eastern parts of Wisconsin. Fair weather with a drop in the mercury is predicted for the next 24 hours. Fine weather is prevailing throughout the middle west and in the upper middle over lake regions. Temperatures are moderate.

The mercury registered 58 degrees above zero Wednesday morning and 77 degrees above Wednesday noon.

CONFLICTING STORIES OF DISCONTENT ARE HEARD FROM FARMERS

Politicians Need a Sign to Tell Whether Agriculturists Mean What They Say

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—The politicians need some kind of a sign to tell them whether the farmers in the middle west are really sore or not.

You can hear it either way. One guesses, after some inquiry but no protracted survey, that agricultural resentment over the administration's failure to give the farmer a special lift is spotty. The farmer is still intensely individual. There seems to be no mass thinking among them.

West Branch, Ia., Hoover's home town, is one of those places where farmers come to do their buying of store goods and their banking, if any. Bankers there say the boys are incensed, not especially by Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill, but by the failure of the government to place them on a parity with the manufacturers.

A hardware dealer there who does considerable business with farmers admits that business isn't as good as it would be if the farmers had more money, but doesn't believe they're interested in legislative farm relief at all. This is a rather common story in Iowa. Most persons still don't know what the McNary-Haugen bill was—and that apparently covers the farmers.

Eert Leech, who visits most of the farms in West Branch vicinity some nine during the year reports more than considerable mutterings of discontent and numerous promises to leave the Republican party flat this year and vote for Al Smith.

But Leech, like some others, is critical. He's sure they'll wind up voting for Hoover.

Eventually your correspondent actually found a couple of dirt farmers. They were on the train, between West Liberty and Columbus Junction. One was W. C. Pickard. He's an uncle of Sam Pickard, the federal radio commissioner and used to be president of the Lee County Grange. He has a 30-acre farm 14 miles from Keokuk. Temporarily he's leasing it, but it doesn't look as if the fellow could make it pay either. The other dirt farmer was Vince Allen of Hancock county, Ill. He has 350 acres across the river from Keokuk.

"I've talked with about a hundred Republicans these last few weeks," Pickard said. "And three-quarters of them are going to vote for Smith. That's been up in the northern part of this state, which is pretty bad off."

Pickard and Allen insisted the only sensible farm remedy now was to bring the prices of things the farmer bought down to the same general level as the things he sold. They had given up hope that one might be elevated to meet the other.

"Used to pay a hired hand $25 a month; now it's $80," they said. "We're getting virtually pre-war prices and paying pre-war prices. The binder you used to buy for $125 costs $280 now; a $50 gang plow costs $70 or $75; a $22 cultivator is $75 and a set of harness that was $30 is $75 or $100."

"Hogs are eight or nine cents a pound, about the same as before the war. Hogs is a losing game. People raise 'em because they've got to raise something. When a man breeds a bunch of sows he doesn't know if he's going to raise one pig or a hundred."

"Last spring," said Allen, "I planted a crop of corn. My average yield there had been 50 or 60 bushels an acre, though one year it was 80. Well, this year the average yield was 20 bushels of the worst corn you ever saw."

"I haven't made any money in three years. It's a tough struggle to get by, even with me and my wife working from five a. m. to eight p. m. A man ought to get a ten percent return from his farm considering the wages of himself and his family, but you can go from farm to farm and not one of them is making six percent."

"I know six farmers in Marshall county who left their farms with foreclosed mortgages. You can see those farms being sold at any court house in Iowa. I want to my banker the other day and told him I couldn't pay this time on the principal of the money I owed him. He said I ought to feel lucky to be able to meet the interest."

"Down in Keokuk I knew a man that owned and farmed 300 acres. He owned no car, he never drank and he never went to town. That made me figure that he must have saved up some money. Well, he found himself going blind so he left his son on the farm and moved to Montrose, where he bought a $3,000 home with a mortgage. He'd been a hard worker all his life."

"The other day they foreclosed and sold both his farm and his house. He's 70 years old and he's going now to the county house."

This might be a better story if Pickard and Allen were Republicans. As a matter of fact, they're Democrats.

CROPS NOT READY FOR CHERRY PICKERS

Early cherry crops at Sturgeon Bay have been delayed a week because of weather conditions, and boys who are expecting to leave for cherry pickers camps at "Chack" and Horseshoe Bay should postpone the trip until they receive word from camp directors. The crop this year looks exceptionally good, according to the directors.

SHIP YOUNG HOLSTEIN CALF INTO ARIZONA

A registered Holstein calf was shipped to Solomonville, Ariz., Tuesday noon by the Wisconsin Live Stock association. The calf, shipped by express will be fed two cans of condensed milk diluted with three quarts of water. Cattle can be shipped safely to Texas and Arizona when they are young, according to Fred Harriman of the association. Much difficulty has been experienced in sending older animals. The climate of that part of the country is not suited for cattle bred here, and as a result most of the animals die before they get there. The alkali dust is believed to be the cause of the deaths, according to Mr. Harriman. Calfs which are sent when a few weeks old, can be bred to become accustomed to the western climate.
